webs a mida

We mandrosos make websites. Mandrosos means lazy people; although we are lazy, this does not mean that we do not like what we do, and if you need a website we stretch ourselves and start to work for you.

We make custom-made websites, meaning that we do not have premade packs and that we make your website along with you. If you have a budget we adapt to it, or you can have some concrete needs and let us make an estimate. We also register your domain and get a web hosting, if needed.

We mandrosos also accept web designs already made. If you have a design and want us to program your site, write to us. It is also helpful if you show us graphic material that you like, in order to guess what kind of design you would find nice.

We make static and dynamic websites, written in XHTML, formatted using CSS and layers, or programmed in Flash/AS. We also know some client languages like JavaScript, server languages like PHP, and databases like MySQL.

Mandrosos are Joanra Patón, telecommunications engineer and postgraduate in web development, who does the programming, and Maria Vidal, illustrator, who takes care of the web design. We live and work in Cardedeu, a town near the Montseny mountains, not far from Barcelona.
